topos addresses internationally active landscape architects, urban planners and decision-makers interested in keeping abreast with international trends and developments in other countries.

The magazine showcases best practice projects and product solutions, delivers current news and places focus on the effects, contexts and implications of urban design and landscape architecture.

Renowned urbanists, landscape architects and pioneers in other disciplines discuss their views and answers to these and other questions, providing the reader with a variety of different perspectives and introduce them to cutting-edge research in their fields.

Its high percentage of subscribers (80 % of the total circulation) indicates the degree to which the target group identifies with the periodical. topos is thus a must-have for successful landscape architects, planners, urban designers and architects all over the world.
